Eric Sensenbrenner represents clients on a broad range of U.S. and international tax matters. With a particular emphasis on transactional tax planning in the international context, Mr. Sensenbrenner has extensive experience in assisting clients in the planning and execution of mergers, acquisitions and spin-offs, and in structuring cross-border investments and capital markets transactions. He previously served as head of Skadden's global Tax Group.

Mr. Sensenbrenner has worked on tax matters for The AES Corporation, Apple Inc., Becton, Dickinson & Co., Broadcom Corporation, Eli Lilly and Company, EMC Corporation, Ford Motor Company, Hewlett-Packard Company, IBM Corporation, Pfizer Inc., Visa Inc. and Yahoo! Inc.

Mr. Sensenbrenner regularly advises U.S. and international multinational companies in connection with cross-border mergers and acquisitions, and post-acquisition restructuring and integration transactions, and represents clients in connection with structuring cross-border investments, including the formation of U.S. and foreign joint ventures. Mr. Sensenbrenner also regularly advises clients with respect to international tax planning matters generally, including subpart F, the foreign tax credit and transfer pricing. He is a frequent author and lecturer on topics related to corporate and international taxation.

Mr. Sensenbrenner has been named one of Lawdragon's 500 Leading Global Tax Lawyers and repeatedly selected for inclusion in Chambers USA, Who's Who Legal: Corporate Tax, The Best Lawyers in America and The Legal 500 U.S. He was a member of the deal team recognized by the Daily Journal with a California Lawyer Attorneys of the Year award for innovative work on behalf of Broadcom Corporation in its acquisition by Avago Technologies, which also was named the Americas Technology and Telecom Tax Deal of the Year at the International Tax Review Americas Awards.
