Skadden, Arps, Slate, Meagher & Flom hosted a reception Thursday for nine young artists selected by a jury of prominent Los Angeles curators and artists. Chief curator Ilene Kurtz-Kretzschmar, left, joins artist Jeff Sheng, center, whose work was selected by the jury, and Skadden attorney Harold M. Williams, right, who was instrumental in organizing the project. Over the next three years, the firm will showcase the work of 25 young artists at its L.A. office and at the UCLA Hammer Museum. Above, Williams, right, who is also president emeritus of the J. Paul Getty Trust, is joined by Skadden attorneys Jerome Coben, left, and Rand S. April, center.
