WHAT MAKES SKADDEN UNIQUE?

IT CAN BE HARD TO DECIDE WHERE TO TRAIN. THERE ARE NUMEROUS STRONG LAW FIRMS IN LONDON, FROM SMALL BOUTIQUES TO GLOBAL FULL-SERVICE FIRMS, MANY OF WHICH PROMOTE THEMSELVES IN SIMILAR WAYS. WHAT MAKES SKADDEN DIFFERENT?

We're one of the largest and most prestigious law firms in the world. With more than 1,700 lawyers across 21 offices, we pride ourselves on delivering solutions to the world's most complex and high-value cases and transactions.

Despite our size, we operate as tight-knit teams on work of all kinds, with our associates and trainees sitting at the centre of their matters and not on the fringes, meaning no day here is routine. Though the work can be challenging, it also is rewarding, with closer access to senior colleagues and a more personalised training experience than other large firms can provide. We believe this offers our attorneys a superior development experience, and it is deeply important to us that those opportunities begin from the moment Skadden trainees walk through the door.

We are unique, and we recognise that you are, too. Our diverse culture means we have no "type" here. Skadden began as a scrappy upstart, competing with the older "white shoe" firms in New York, and we continue to cherish that outsider culture even as we have grown to our current size. Diversity, equity and inclusion have been core Skadden values since the founding of our firm. The shared passion for these principles makes this a special place to work. You'll find an eclectic mix of lawyers at Skadden, but all of us share a common thread that binds us as a team: a desire to innovate, excel and deliver extraordinary client service.

A training contract at Skadden provides you with an opportunity to carve your own career path. Our platform — an international firm with unrivalled experience in our practice areas — will serve as a springboard for your professional life. During your training contract, our attorneys and structured training programme will be there to help you every step of the way. Take a closer look at our recruiting and training materials to see for yourself what makes us stand out from the crowd.

“Diversity, equity and inclusion have been core Skadden values since the founding of our firm. The shared passion for these principles makes this a special place to work.”

VACATION PLACEMENTS

Skadden's training contracts are offered to students who participate in our vacation placement programme, which provides participants with firsthand experience working on actual global transactions. The programme also provides insight into the firm's culture and atmosphere.

Each student is paired with an associate supervisor and trainee liaison who identify substantive and suitable assignments. Our vacation placement students are offered the option to practise either in a single area or to divide their time between two practice areas, thereby gaining greater exposure to our work. Students participate in training workshops focused on current matters, which aid their professional development and provide invaluable perspective from Skadden lawyers. Social events, such as cooking classes, dinners and shuffleboard evenings, allow vacation students to interact with each other and Skadden lawyers on a more informal level. Our two-week placements are offered in the spring and summer. We remunerate vacation placement students £500 per week to assist with expenses. Undergraduate candidates need to have reached the penultimate year of their law degree studies or the final year for a non-law degree.

SUBSTANTIVE RESPONSIBILITY FROM THE START

I APPLIED TO SKADDEN BECAUSE OF ITS REPUTATION AS A LEADING MULTINATIONAL FIRM ACROSS BOTH TRANSACTIONAL AND CONTENTIOUS PRACTICES IN LONDON, AS WELL AS ITS TRADITION OF HAVING A SMALLER TRAINEE COHORT.

I knew that this combination would give me exposure to more responsibility working on interesting matters at an early stage of my career, which is key to any junior lawyer's development. My training and subsequent qualification in the corporate team at Skadden have confirmed this. I'd recommend Skadden to any applicant who wants to push themselves to learn and advance as a lawyer.

My experience with the application process for a vacation scheme at Skadden was relatively unusual. After graduating with a non-law degree, I enlisted in the South Korean army as part of my national service and was deployed overseas during application season. Skadden was one of the few law firms which offered flexibility and accommodated my circumstances during the process. This exemplified the firm's commitment to hiring great candidates from a diverse range of backgrounds and experiences. There's no set 'mould' for Skadden lawyers.

I've worked on numerous interesting and high-profile transactions while at Skadden, including multibillion dollar divestments in beauty companies as well as smaller investments in a series of fintech start-ups. Even as a trainee or junior associate, you're always a core member of Skadden deal teams, working closely with the partners and clients, and there are plenty of opportunities for substantive legal work. At Skadden, you will learn from some of the best lawyers in London and the world.

PRO BONO

MAKING AN IMPACT AT SKADDEN

Skadden views pro bono service as a professional responsibility. While recognising that such representations are a personal endeavour, the firm actively encourages its attorneys and trainee solicitors to participate. The London office has a rich tradition of pro bono work across a broad spectrum of issues and practice areas, including but not limited to housing, domestic violence, family law, immigration, welfare benefits and public international law.

COMMITMENT

Skadden's commitment to pro bono service runs deep. The firm has pledged to dedicate 3-5% of its billable hours to pro bono matters, with the firm meeting or exceeding that goal every year.

Our policies encourage attorneys to contribute to the firm's commitment to the public interest. Accordingly, attorneys are asked to perform at least 60 hours of pro bono work a year, with all hours spent on pro bono counted as chargeable for all purposes. Accordingly, over 2 million hours of pro bono work have been completed by Skadden attorneys in the past 10 years. These efforts make Skadden one of the leading pro bono service providers globally.

RECENT STATISTICS

In 2022, attorneys and professional staff in the London office spent almost 13,000 hours on pro bono work, with 93% of London-based attorneys working on pro bono matters. Firmwide, over 180,000 hours were spent on pro bono by lawyers, summer associates and professional staff.

Over 2 million hours of pro bono work have been completed by Skadden attorneys in the past 10 years.
