Andreas Kafetzopoulos focuses on European and international antitrust/competition law. Mr. Kafetzopoulos regularly provides strategic advice to multinational corporations on complex cross-border merger control cases and multijurisdictional cartel and abuse of dominance investigations. He also advises clients on the antitrust aspects of joint venture and cooperation agreements, license and technology transfer agreements, supply and distribution agreements and global compliance programs. Mr. Kafetzopoulos represents clients before the European Commission, the European Courts and major antitrust regulators around the world. His experience covers a diverse range of sectors, including nuclear energy, renewables, chemicals and petrochemicals, mining, engineering, pharmaceuticals, air transport, automotive, finance, and information and communication technology. Prior to joining Skadden, Mr. Kafetzopoulos worked in the Brussels offices of two leading international law firms.
