Nina Rose represents pharmaceutical, medical device and other consumer product manufacturers in mass tort and multidistrict litigation. She has extensive experience in the area of product liability, particularly with respect to pre-trial, discovery, and class action strategy and briefing.

Ms. Rose has significant experience with respect to the defense of consumer class actions, having represented a variety of product manufacturers and consumer service providers facing proposed nationwide and statewide classes alleging consumer fraud, warranty and other claims. She publishes and speaks regularly on class action developments and trends, including topics such as strategies for disposing of class claims at the pleading stage and the role of expert witnesses at class certification.

Ms. Rose also has substantial experience in successfully defending challenges to her clients' claims of privilege and against allegations of spoliation in connection with product liability litigation. She advises corporate clients on best practices to protect the confidentiality of their privileged communications and to avoid costly discovery disputes regarding data retention.

Ms. Rose was named one of the Top 30 Lawyers Under 30 in Washington, D.C. by Legal Bisnow.
