Jakob Saettler primarily supports his colleagues in complex litigation and arbitration proceedings. He conducts research, assists in the collection of data and drafts documents for litigation and other purposes.

Prior to joining Skadden in 2014, Mr. Saettler worked in the litigation department of a multinational engineering company for nearly two years. Mr. Saettler, a Vis Moot alumnus, coached several Frankfurt Vis Moot teams and is former president of the Frankfurt Moot Alumni Association.

His recent experience includes representing:

- an international private equity fund as claimant in a post-M&A arbitration against another private equity fund
- a global materials technology and recycling company in a high-value dispute arising from a joint venture for the production and supply of key industrial materials
- a leading international logistics company before a German court regarding the enforcement of a foreign court judgment
- a major car manufacturer in a €1 billion arbitration against a U.S.-based automotive supplier, as well as a related U.S. lawsuit relating to the termination of a supply contract
- the Republic of Moldova in defending against a bilateral investment treaty violation claim by Russian investors in the banking sector
- an Asian company in an ad hoc arbitration concerning the insolvency of a joint venture
- an international private equity fund as respondent in a post-M&A arbitration with a strategic buyer about a target in the construction industry
- a leading German bank in a major dispute with former board members regarding so-called “cum/ex” transactions
